2023 Financial Resolutions Study

A FEW WORDS ABOUT THE STUDY

Fidelity Investments'® annual Financial Resolutions Study is designed to explore attitudes about making New Year financial resolutions. This year's study examines how Americans are approaching the new year given economic headwinds of market volatility and inflation and explores whether they're making a resolution to improve their financial situation.

THIS YEAR'S KEY FINDINGS

OPTIMISM OUT, PRAGMATISM IN

2023 expected to be "the year of living sensibly"

are considering a

financial resolution

for the new year

vs. 68% who considered

one last year

More than one-third of Americans say they're in worse financial shape than last year

Inflation tops concerns for the year ahead, after it was the top financial setback for 2022

THE TOP 3 FINANCIAL RESOLUTIONS REMAIN CONSISTENT YEAR-OVER-YEAR:

39% Save More Money

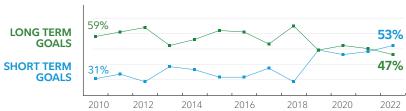

32% Pay Down Debt

28% Spend Less Money

BUT FOR THE FIRST TIME, SHORT-TERM GOALS TAKE CENTER STAGE

Among those planning to save more money in the new year, more than half are focused on short-term goals*, a reversal of historical trends.

*Short term goals include credit card debt, emergency savings, mortgage, big ticket purchases, etc.; long-term goals include retirement, college savings, health care, long-term care, etc.

Of those planning a financial resolution for the new year, 94% say they're approaching it differently given events of the last couple years

Nearly half (45%) are considering more conservative goals.

Those making financial resolutions hope to achieve "greater peace of mind" and "live a debt-free life."

Millennials.

19% of Millennials say they had to empty their emergency fund completely to address the financial setback(s)

11% said their rainy-day fund wasn't enough

19% didn't have an emergency fund to tap

WHAT DOES 2023 HAVE IN STORE?

Only 65% believe they'll be better off financially in the coming year (vs. 72% in the last study)

But nearly half (49%) will try to maintain the savings habits they've picked up during the pandemic.

ACCORDING TO AMERICANS, 2023 WILL BE THE YEAR OF:

29% Living Sensibly

20% Planning Ahead

20% New Chapters

WE ASKED AMERICANS WHAT THEY'D RATHER DO AS THEY ENTER 2023:

33% Improve my mental health

WOMEN WERE MORE LIKELY THAN MEN to say they'd rather improve their mental health (35% vs. 30%)

75%
Proceed with caution as I'm feeling rather unsettled about the state of the world and economy

25%
Turn the page on the last few years and bring on the roaring 20s!

Take my chances in the stock market

29%
Take my chances finding love on a reality
TV show

WOMEN WERE MORE LIKELY THAN MEN to say they'd rather proceed with caution (78% vs. 73%)

MEN AND WOMEN AGREE:

The stock market is more appealing than being on a reality TV show!

THE GOOD NEWS

MORE PEOPLE EXPRESS HAVING A POSITIVE RELATIONSHIP WITH MONEY THAN NEGATIVE.

MY RELATIONSHIP TO MONEY IS:

MOSTLY POSITIVE

Healthy: 17%

Confident: 15% Hands-on: 15% Relaxed: 11%

Stressful: 32%

MOSTLY NEGATIVE

Obsessive: 3%

Non-existent: 5% Intimidating: 3%

Women are more likely to say their relationship with money is "stressful" than men, at 36% vs. men at 26%

More than eight-in-ten Americans say having a plan in place can help them better deal with the unexpected.

A FINANCIAL RESOLUTION IS ONE PLACE TO START.

Those considering a financial resolution for 2023 are:

More likely to believe they'll be better off financially in the new year (73% vs. just 49% of those not making a resolution)

More likely to say they and their family are in a better financial situation compared to this time last year (33% vs. 17% of those not making a resolution)

SO WHAT WERE THE MAIN REASONS PEOPLE KEPT THEIR RESOLUTIONS LAST YEAR?

I was motivated by my passion to reach my goal

It was realistic, and easy to maintain over the long-term

The financial goal I set was clear and specific

It felt good to make progress

TALKING TO A PROFESSIONAL CAN HELP.

The vast majority (80%) of people with advisors were able to stick to their financial resolution, compared to just over half (55%) of those without an advisor.

In fact, those with advisors are more than twice as likely to say they have a "healthy" relationship with money than those without one.

METHODOLOGY:

This study presents the findings of a national online survey, consisting of 3,020 adults,18 years of age and older. The generations are defined as: Baby Boomers (ages 58-76), Gen X (ages 42-57), millennials (ages 26-41), and Gen Y (ages 18-25; although this generation has a wider range, we only surveyed adults for the purposes of this survey). Interviewing for this CARAVAN® Survey was conducted October 17-23, 2022 by Big Village, which is not affiliated with Fidelity Investments. The results of this survey may not be representative of all adults meeting the same criteria as those surveyed for this study.
