3. Contributions

You must establish a separate SIMPLE IRA for the purpose of receiving contributions under the Fidelity SIMPLE IRA Plan.

A. Employee Elective Deferrals

As an Eligible Employee under the Plan, you may elect to defer part of your compensation to the Plan each year instead of receiving it in cash. The amount of your compensation you elect to defer (hereinafter referred to as "Elective Deferrals") must generally be expressed as a percentage of your compensation up to a maximum of $15,500 for 2023 and $16,000 for 2024, as indexed to reflect cost-of-living adjustments. If you are age 50 or older by the end of the tax year, you may also be able to make an additional Elective Deferral of $3,500 for 2023 and $3,500 for 2024.

The percentage of your compensation you elect to contribute to the Plan will be withheld from each payroll, or if you elect, in a single sum, before taxes are computed, and contributed by your Employer on your behalf to a SIMPLE IRA set up by you, or on your behalf. Your Elective Deferrals are not includable as taxable wages on Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") Form W-2. These amounts are subject to FICA taxes. The decision to defer part of your compensation to the Plan is entirely voluntary.

You may make or change your Elective Deferral election at any time during the 60-day period before the beginning of each Plan Year by delivering a completed Salary Reduction Agreement to your Employer. For the Plan Year in which you first satisfy the eligibility requirements described in Section 2, you may make your Elective Deferral election at any time during the 60-day period immediately before you become eligible to participate in the Plan, and the 60-day period shall include the date you become eligible to participate in the Plan or the day before that date. For the first Plan Year, you may make your Elective Deferral election at any time during the 60-day period that precedes or runs concurrent with the Effective Date of the Plan, or the date your Employer notifies you of your opportunity to make an Elective Deferral election under the Plan, if later.

Throughout the Plan Year, you can modify Elective Deferrals monthly, effective the first day of the next month, unless your Employer elects to limit the ability to modify Elective Deferrals as specified below:

- ☐ You may modify Elective Deferrals on the first day of the next (select Quarter or Election Period) by delivering another Salary Reduction Agreement to your Employer.
- ☐ Quarter or ☐ Election Period

You may terminate your Elective Deferral election at any time during the Plan Year. If you terminate your Elective Deferral election during the Plan Year, you may resume Elective Deferrals on the first day of the next month following such termination, unless your Employer elects to limit the ability to resume Elective Deferrals as specified below:

- ☐ You may not resume Elective Deferrals until the first day of the next (select Quarter or Plan Year) by delivering another Salary Reduction Agreement to your Employer.
- ☐ Quarter or ☐ Plan Year

You are not required to make Elective Deferrals to the Plan. However, if your Employer has elected to match each Eligible Employee's Elective Deferrals, you will not receive the Employer Matching Contributions unless you elect to make Elective Deferrals.

If you work for another employer and are making Elective Deferrals to another employer-sponsored retirement plan, there is a limit on the aggregate amount of Elective Deferrals you make each year. This is known as your Internal Revenue Code ("IRC") Section 402(g) limit. The IRC Section 402(g) limit is $22,500 for 2023 and $23,000 for 2024. However, you may exceed this limit to the extent of any eligible catch-up Election Deferrals.

Contributions that exceed the maximum permissible amount per year (i.e., amounts in excess of the annual SIMPLE IRA contribution limit, or the IRC Section 402(g) limit) are considered "Excess Elective Deferrals." Excess Elective Deferrals are includable in your gross income in the calendar year of the deferral. Any income on Excess Elective Deferrals is includable in your gross income in the year the excess is withdrawn from your SIMPLE IRA. You should withdraw Excess Elective Deferrals and any allocable income by April 15 following the year to which the Excess Elective Deferrals relate. Excess Elective Deferrals that are not withdrawn by April 15 following the year to which the Excess Elective Deferrals apply may be subject to a 6% excise tax for each year they remain in your SIMPLE IRA.

Note: The rules regarding excess or erroneous contributions to SIMPLE IRAs have not been released by the IRS. As a result, modifications to provisions contained herein may be required in order to comply with regulatory requirements under IRC 408(p).

B. Employer Contributions

Each year, your Employer may make contributions to your SIMPLE IRA. If your Employer elects to make Non-elective Contributions to the Plan below, you will be notified of the election within a reasonable time prior to the Plan's 60-day election period. Unless your Employer elects below and notifies you that your Employer has elected Non-elective Contributions for the plan year, your Employer will make a dollar-for-dollar match of your Elective Deferrals each year (including catch-up), up to 3% (unless your Employer inserts a lesser percentage below, as elected on the Fidelity SIMPLE IRA Adoption Agreement) of your compensation or the applicable limit, whichever is less.

Percentage

If you do not make Elective Deferrals to the Plan, your Employer will not make a Matching Contribution on your behalf.

Note: The Employer may not choose a Matching Contribution limit that is less than 3% in more than two out of any five consecutive years.

- ☐ Your Employer will make a Non-elective Contribution equal to 2% of your compensation. (The maximum compensation that can be taken into account in determining your employer's Non-elective Contribution amount is $330,000 for 2023 and $345,000 for 2024. As a result, the maximum Non-elective Contribution an employee can receive is $6,600 for 2023 and $6,900 for 2024). Your Employer will make this Non-elective Contribution regardless of whether you elect to make Elective Deferrals to your SIMPLE IRA provided you are eligible to participate in the Plan.

4. Distributions

Distributions from your SIMPLE IRA are subject to ordinary federal income taxes, and may be subject to state income taxes, for the year in which you receive them.

Distributions before you reach age 59½ are generally subject to a 10% early withdrawal penalty in addition to ordinary income taxes. However, any distribution made before you reach age 59½ that is subject to a 10% early withdrawal penalty and is made within two years from the date you first participated in your employer's SIMPLE IRA Plan will be subject to a 25% early withdrawal penalty.

You must begin receiving required minimum distributions from your SIMPLE IRA by April 1 following the year you turn age 72. Subsequent minimum distributions must be made thereafter by each December 31.

To request a distribution(s) from your Fidelity SIMPLE IRA, please complete the Fidelity IRA One-Time Withdrawal request form. If you have any questions regarding your distribution options or need assistance completing the necessary forms, please call a Fidelity retirement representative at 800-343-3548.

IRS regulations require the custodian of your SIMPLE IRA to withhold federal income tax at the rate of 10% from your SIMPLE IRA distribution(s) unless you elect NOT to have withholding apply by indicating this on your distribution request. This election will remain in effect on periodic distributions taken from your SIMPLE IRA until revoked by you. You can revoke this election at any time by calling a Fidelity retirement representative at 800-343-3548.

If you elect to have withholding apply, either by indicating that you want to have withholding apply, by not indicating that you do not want withholding applied when you request your distribution(s), or by not providing a U.S. residential address, federal income tax will be withheld from your SIMPLE IRA distribution(s) at the rate of 10%. Even if you choose to have federal income tax withheld, you are still responsible for the full payment of federal income tax, any state or local taxes, and any penalties which may apply to your distribution(s). Whether or not you elect to have withholding apply, you may be responsible for payment of estimated taxes. You may also incur penalties under the IRS estimated tax rules if your estimated tax payments are not sufficient.

5. Rollovers and Transfers

You may roll over or transfer all or part of your SIMPLE IRA to another SIMPLE IRA. Rollovers from one SIMPLE IRA to another SIMPLE IRA must generally comply with the rollover rules applicable to IRAs. Rollovers from one SIMPLE IRA to another SIMPLE IRA must be completed no later than the 60th day after the day you receive the distribution from your SIMPLE IRA. You may not roll over assets from a SIMPLE IRA to another SIMPLE IRA more than once in any 12-month period. As of January 1, 2015, you may not roll over assets between any of your IRAs more than once in a 12-month period.

You may not roll over or transfer assets from your SIMPLE IRA to another IRA (other than a SIMPLE IRA) until two years have passed from the time you first participated in your Employer's SIMPLE IRA Plan. After the two-year period, rollovers from a SIMPLE IRA to another IRA are subject to the same rollover rules applicable to IRAs.

To transfer all or part of your Fidelity SIMPLE IRA to another financial institution, please complete a Transfer of Asset request for the institution to which you wish to transfer.
